Kernan's - "Moulin Rouge" Burles quers,

The Weston Sisters, jolly, gigantic and German, Levine and Alma, muscular and amusing; J. Gaffney Brown, light-footed and neatly dressed, with Arras and Alice, European equilibrists, dominated the two performances given yesterday at Kernan's by the "Moulin Rouge" Burlesquers. All of the seven deserve credit for the effort of the seven deserve credit for the enough put out on their work and for the manner in which they have departed from the hackneyed matter so usual in vaudeville. rupted by a Strike.

The Craft Was to Have Been Launched August 21, But That Event Has Been Indefinitely Postponed Owing to a Stoppage of Ope. rations at the Seabury Shipyard.

BUILDING OF THE BAILEY

The launching of the torpedo boat Bailey at the works of the Seabury Company at Morris Heights, N. J., has been indefinitely postponed on account of a strike of the men there. The launching was originally zet for August 21, but was postponed, and recently the Navy Department has received word from the Seabury people stating that no date can be set.

When the launching takes place the craft will be christened by Miss Florence Beekman Bailey, granddaughter of the officer for whom the boat is named, Rear Admiral Theodorus Balley. Rear Admiral Theodorus Bailey was born at Chateaugay, N. Y., April 12, 1805, and died at Washington, February 10, 1877, He was appointed a midshipman from New York January 1, 1818, and received his commission as lieutenant March 3, 1822. His first cruise was on board the Cyane, Captain Trenchard, which captured several Captain Trenchard, which captured several slavers on the coast of Africa in 1820 and 1821. He then made a three years' cruise in the Pacific on the Franklin. In 1833 to 1838 he salied on a cruise around the world in the Vincennes. After serving on the frigate Constellation in which he again salied around the world he was placed in command of the storeship Lexington in 1846, on which, at the outbreak of the Mexican war he conveyed to California by way of Cape Horn, an artillery company and several officers who afterwards became famous, including Henry W. Halleck, William T. Sherman, and E. O. C. Ord.

Licutenant Bailey rendered efficient aid Licutenant Bailey rendered efficient aid to the l'acific squadron by fitting out and landing numerous expeditions. He made use of his vessel, an old "razee," as an armed cruiser, and after landing the troops at Monterery, blockeded and captured San Blas and was actively employed with the land forces of California. He was commis-sioned as commander March 6, 1849, and as captain. Proceedings 15, 1875. On Capture 19. sioned as commander March 6, 1849, and as captain December 15, 1855. On September 6, 1855, he was assigned to the command of the St. Mary's, of the Pacific squadron, and cruised for three years. Arriving opportunely at Panama, during the riots, he took steps to suppress them that were successful and satisfactory alike to the citizens and the government. On the same cruise he was instrumental in restoring friendly relations with the inhabitants of the Fig. relations with the inhabitants of the Fiji Islands. At the beginning of the civil war-he was placed in command of the frigate Colorado of the Western Gulf blockading squadron, and on May 2, 1861, co-operated squadron, and on May 2, 1861, co-operated with Gen. Harvey Brown in the operations before Pensacola. He reconnoitered the position of the Judah, going up to her side on the night of September 13, 1861, and matured the plan by which Lieutenant Russell cut out and burned that Confederate privalents of we hours later.

cut out and burned that Confederate privateer a few hours later.

Joining Farragut's squadron at New Orleans as second in command, he led the attack in April, *1882, commanding the right column of the fleet in the passage of the forts St. Philip and Jackson and leading the fleet in the espure of the Chalmette batteries and of the city. He led the attack in the gunboat Cayuga passing up ahead of the fleet, through the fire of five of the forts, sustaining unaided the attack of the Confederate vessels, rams and fire, and passed through them to the city. Admiral Farragut tent Balley to demand the surrender of New Orleans. Accompanied by Lieut. George Perkins, he passed through the streets in the midst of a hooting mob, who, it is said, threatened the ing mob, who, it is said, threatened the officers with drawn pistols and other weapons. In his official report of the victory, dated April 24, 1862, Captain Balley used the famous phrase, "It was a contest of iron hearts in wooden ships against iron clads with iron beaks, and the iron hearts

Admiral Farragut commended his gallantry and ability in his official report. He was promoted commodore after the capture of New Orleans, receiving his commission July 13, 1862, and was assigned to the command of the Eastern Gulf blocksding squadron. Although his health was im-paired, he displayed energy and persever-ance in breaking up blockade-running on the Florida coast and within eighteen months 150 blockade runners were captured

After the civil war he was commandan of the Portsmouth navy yard from 1865 to 1867. He was commissioned rear admiral on July 25, 1886, and was placed on the retired list October 10, 1886. Rear Admiral Balley was a nephew of Senator Theodorus Bailey, who was the representative in Congress from New York from 1793 to 1797, and from 1799 to 1803. In 1803 he was cho-sen Senator from New York, but resigned in 1894 to accept the postmastership of New York city.

Chevy Chase Lake has put on a new red dress this week, and the brilliant garb is wonderfully becoming to this beautiful resort. The thousands of fairy lights, the huge set pieces, the fancy loops of lights, and the boats on the lake are all of uniform color, red. The water, too, seems as if it was ablaze. Dancing still continues to be the mest popular of all the many attractions at the lake, while Prof. Bonch's band plays all the new music. The electric cars run to the lake every three minutes.
